Signs of spring

Granted, the temperatures seemed warmer a few weeks ago when it was technically winter. But the signs are here — sunshine, birds chirping and flowers. Spring has arrived, undeniably. Accordingly, the staff at Rush's Florist and Green House in Romulus have been preparing for the

Block grant allocations are announced

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

City recommendations for community development block grants were announced during a public hearing Monday night with six out of eight applicants receiving funds.

Recipients of 1990 block grants are: Ecorse Creek drain assessment, $20,000; Wayne Road sidewalk project, $17,775; Romulus Help Center, $15,000 for youth assistance and $13,000 for senior citizen services; First Step Counseling, $5,000; security lights for neighborhood watch area, $5,000 and the Information Center Home Share program, $725.

Block grants are allocated annually through the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development. Grants are offered to individuals, organizations or city departments that can provide a specific service to the community.

Grant requests are channeled through the city and then through the county with final approval notice supplied during the summer.

Denied by the city this year were two grant requests — funding for emergency sirens and a program for homeless people leaving shelter life.

Block grant coordinator Jeffrey Martell said the emergency management project was denied because the proposed sirens would go to an ineligible area near the Romulus police station. Less than the required 42.49 percent of the residents are in the low-to moderate-income range.

Also denied was a request from Wayne-Metropolitan Community Services. Agency representatives asked for $5,000 to go toward people moving out of the agency shelter. The money would be used for first month rent, food and transportation for clients.

Martell said the request was denied because the Wayne County CDBG program has already earmarked $80,000 for Wayne Metro Services to build a homeless shelter in Westland. Further, he said, a request for assistance to the homeless after they leave a shelter is ineligible. Documenting how the money was spent would be too difficult, Martell said.

Councilmember Jimmie Raspberry, who endorsed the shelter project during an earlier public hearing, complained about the denial.

"If it is the policy of this administration not to help poor people just say so," Raspberry said.

"I have no problem with helping poor people wherever they are," replied Mayor Beverly McAnalley. "We have worked with these people historically."

Another sore point was the $5,000 allocation toward security lights for residents in the Beverly Road, Wayne Road area. The request came through the police department, which sponsors a neighborhood watch program for the area.

"I am opposed to spending that much money on one particular area," said Councilmember Noah Bergeron.

The 1990 CDBG budget received approval later in the evening during the regular council meeting. Opposing votes came from Raspberry and Bergeron.

Alternatives presented to drain project

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Five potential drainage systems for the Ecorse Creek area were presented to Romulus city councilmembers during a study session Monday night.

Sally Hodges of the planning firm McKenna Associates explained the programs to council. The proposals were developed, she said, to manage storm water runoff from Wick Road.

The Ecorse Creek area extends as far as Ecorse Road to the north, Wayne Road to the west and Wick Road to the south. It nearly reaches Middlebelt Road to the east.

Included in that area are several major development sites including that for the extensive Metro World Centre project. Last fall, councilmembers were presented with a plan to create one holding pond for the entire area on city property near Gordonier school north of Smith Road.

An open channel of 4,400 feet would carry the existing Ecorse Creek flow to Smith Road. The drain would then be enclosed for 5,100 feet, with pipe installed within a new easement along the north side of Smith.

Hodges said this plan saves as much land as possible for development.

This plan was presented to council again Monday night as Alternative One. Cost was estimated at $9.2 million or $8,823 per acre.

The project would be funded by special assessment.

However, the reasons for developing alternative plans resurfaced Monday night as property owners complained about the additional tax dollars an assessment would demand along with the inconvenience of digging up portions of Smith Road.

"I do not mind paying my share, but I don't want to pay someone else's bill," said Ray Nelson, owner of Smith Road business Nelson Recycling.

"I think people who would benefit the most from these drains should pay the largest amount," said area property owner Dan Brown.

Hodges told councilmembers some of the alternative plans call for lower initial costs than the original drainage proposal.

Alternative number two calls for the enclosed drain to be built within the existing Smith Road right-of-way. Property along Smith Road would not be affected, Hodges said.

This plan would cost $8,689 per acre. Again, a special assessment would be needed.

The third alternative calls for a 19.22-acre retention pond fed by 2,050 feet of pipe directing water flows to the basin from Merriman Road and Venoy. This plan eliminates the area east of Merriman Road from the special assessment district. Existing development south of the curve on Merriman Road would not be included.

This project, which would require the purchase of private property, is expected to cost $9,315 per acre.

Hodges said this plan relies on the public sector taking responsibility for retention basin funding, construction and maintenance. It also removes private land from the tax rolls, she said.

The next alternative divides the district into thirds with a separate retention basin in each. Storm water would be directed to the basins through a combination of pipe and open ditches.

This plan calls for relocating part of the current Ecorse Creek. The basins would be built with private funds through a coordinated effort by property owners. A special assessment district would be used if requested.

Construction costs would reach $9.1 million or $12,309 per acre.

The final alternative requires the construction of separate retention basins for each parcel. Developers would have full responsibility for their own construction.

Cost would be $11.1 million or $14,953 per acre.

Senior housing project is OK'd

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

A senior citizen housing project proposed for Wayne Road at Goddard has received conditional approval from the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The project, which will be developed by the Oak Park firm Cooperative Services, Inc., will offer seniors subsidized apartments.

Groundbreaking for the project is now slated for August or September, according to Dennis Oakes, community development director.

More than a year ago, city officials were told a gap may exist between the HUD appraisal of the development site property and the actual value. HUD funding for the initial property purchase would be limited to the appraisal amount.

City officials offered their support to the project by agreeing to cover the difference so Cooperative Services could move forward.

HUD appraised the property at $70,000. The actual value is approximately $120,000.

The HUD notice of conditional acceptance describes the senior complex as a three-story building containing 64 one-bedroom units.

Included in the rent will be electric ranges and refrigerators, coin-operated laundry facilities, disposals, carpeting, drapery rods, shades and cold water.

Total cost for this project is expected to reach $3.9 million. HUD will loan Cooperative Services up to $2.9 million. The company will be expected to pay $55,000 when it closes on the site later this year.

Bible college celebrates Romulus campus opening

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

A banquet was staged Saturday night to celebrate the newest addition to Romulus — the Urban Bible Institute.

The Romulus facility, located at Beverly Road, was developed as an extension to the original Bible college in Detroit.

Dr. Clifton Booth, founder of the private school, said the institute prepares young people to become spiritual leaders in their community.

"I'm looking forward to getting more students here," Booth said at the banquet.

Booth established the Detroit institute approximately 16 years ago to serve two groups of people, those who want a career in the ministry and people who simply want to study the Bible.

Four years ago, Booth sold his house, car and his furniture to finance a new home for the college in the New Center Area of Detroit.

Lillian Dorn, public relations director for the college, said UBI offers two- and four-year programs concerned with all phases of the Bible.

Also offered are courses in Greek, Hebrew, music, counseling and church finances. One class teaches the use of puppets to explain the Bible to children.

"It's a total program," Dorn said.

Dorn added faculty members are virtually volunteers, they earn $1 per year.

For now, the Romulus facility is located within Romulus House of God, Church Number Two. Registration for local classes was staged last week.

Booth hopes to find a new Romulus building for the college within the next three or four months, Dorn said.

Meanwhile, the institute has received a strong show of support from the city.

At the banquet, guest speaker Mayor Beverly McAnalley presented resolutions of appreciation to Booth and Dr. Lovell Wooden, dean of the Romulus institute.

"We're government, but we work closely with our churches," she said. "The role of the school in the community is certainly a vital one. Homes are not always providing what we need to raise, morally straight and spiritual young people."

"There's so many negative things taking place (with youth), you need something positive to lead them," added Mayor Pro Tem Randolph Gear.

Highlighting the event were solo performances by vocalists Pam Smith of Detroit and Romulus resident Esther Sanders.

Health training mandated

Instructors may find themselves playing the role of students if a state bill regarding Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome education receives Senate approval.

The proposed legislation, which was recently approved in the House of Representatives, would require all Michigan elementary and secondary school nurses and health instructors to seek special AIDS education.

Existing state law requires information about AIDS to be included in school courses dealing with communicable diseases.

Promoters of the pending bill claim it would provide health instructors with the most up-to-date information about the deadly disease in the areas of transmission and prevention.

Since March 14, the bill has sat with members of the Senate Committee on Education and Mental Health.

Locally, reaction to the bill has been positive.

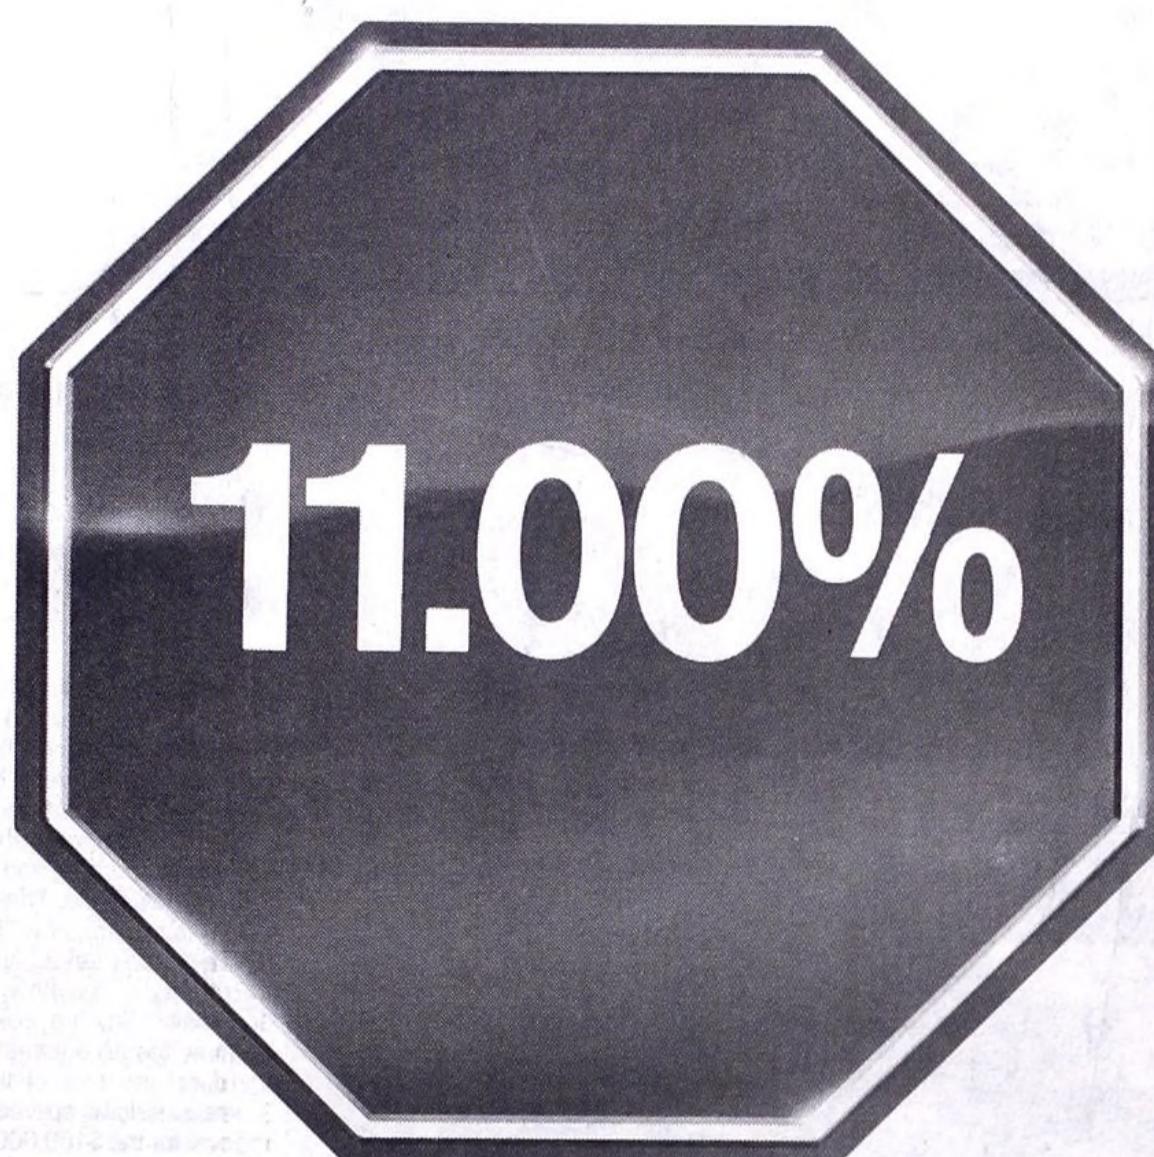

"I would be happy for special classes," said Ruth Fairchild, district nurse for Romulus Community Schools. "Everybody should be briefed on AIDS and everything new we would come across as a nurse."

Fairchild said she has attended in-service sessions about AIDS offered by the Wayne County Intermediate School District, but not all nurses are able to participate.

"A lot aren't attending. It makes me wonder how they update their information," she said.

"I don't see any particular problem with that (mandatory courses)," said Dr. Elvin Peets, superintendent of Van Buren Public Schools. "You can't have people teaching topics they're not trained to do."

ROMULUS NEWS DIGEST

Armed robbery is reported

An armed robbery was reported Saturday from a gas station on the 7000 block of Wayne Road.

According to police reports, a man approached the attendant at the service counter at 8:55 p.m.

The man then produced a dark gun and instructed the attendant to empty the cash drawer, police said. The attendant handed over the money.

The suspect left the station, heading westbound on foot.

Police describe the suspect as a white male, six feet tall, with a slender build. He wore a blue ski mask, a blue jean jacket, gray jeans, white high-top tennis shoes and brown gloves. He is approximately 22 years old.

Anyone with information about this case is urged to contact the Romulus Police Department at 941-8400.

Police officers injured in accident

Two Romulus police officers received minor injuries last week after a collision with a Van Buren Township police car.

Michael Liebert and James Cox were treated and released March 20 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The officers were chasing a vehicle for reckless driving at the time of the accident, according to Michigan State Police reports.

They were treated for minor head and knee injuries after their car was hit broadside near the intersection of Haggerty Road and Savage, the report stated.

A Van Buren police car driven by officer John Gora, 29, was also involved in the chase. The Romulus cars reportedly did not have overhead lights flashing, and Gora passed them as they slowed down to break off the chase, reports said.

Reports state Liebert was turning into a driveway when Gora's car hit the Romulus vehicle.

Zoning approved for truck facility

Romulus city councilmembers approved Monday night a special land use for a truck terminal to be constructed on Harrison Road between Wick Road and Hildebrandt.

Council approval came after a recent recommendation from the city planning commission.

The development will be known as the J.B. Hunt Terminal.

Road to be resurfaced

Wayne County officials said earlier this month they will soon begin work on a resurfacing project for Pennsylvania Road.

The project will be part of the Wayne County Internal Paving Program. Romulus will assume approximately one-third of the improvement cost through this program.

For 1990, the resurfacing is expected to cost $96,000 per lane per mile with the city share reaching $32,000 per lane per mile of paving.

Pennsylvania Road will be resurfaced from Middlebelt Road to Wahrman.

City officials signaled the county to move forward with the project by approving a resolution Monday night.

April will be arts month

Romulus will join other area communities this April to celebrate Arts Month Downriver.

City councilmembers Monday night approved a resolution pledging their support of the event.

"Our objective is to enhance the cultural image of the area by focusing public attention on the wealth of artists and arts opportunities available here. Throughout April, there are enough events to attend a different arts activity almost every day," said Beth Stone, director of the Downriver Council for the Arts.

New toys

Chief William Greenslait and Sgt. Darrell DuFore pointed out the advantages of their new fire equipment to Mayor Beverly McAnally last week. The department recently purchased two vehicles, a 1,500-gallon pumper and a heavy-duty rescue vehicle. The previous station pumpers, now 15 years old, are on the market. Among the advantages of the new pumper, Greenslait said, are color-coded switches and an automatic ladder stored on the roof of the truck. Greenslait said he appreciates city approval for the $180,000 pumper purchase. "They're giving us the tools to do the job with," he said. ANP photos by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

Building board of appeals to be formed

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

A search is now on for potential members to sit on a new city board—the Romulus Building Appeals Board.

Mayor Beverly McAnally asked city councilmembers Monday night to begin the search for members. The need for a board arose, she said, when representatives from a building company attempted to appeal a city request.

Byrne Benson Homes, Inc. was recently instructed to install a pipe system designed to prevent basement flooding in all residential developments. The system was requested in light of extensive in-home flooding reported last month, and Byrne Benson representatives were told building permits would not be issued without the inclusion of the system. Initially, Byrne Benson representatives attempted to defer from pipe installation through the Zoning Board of Appeals. That group by city law could not hear the case.

City officials then agreed a building board of appeals is needed.

McAnally warned councilmembers that finding people for the new board may be time-consuming.

"The law is very specific about requirements," she said.

To qualify for a position on the board, a potential member must be a licensed professional architect or engineer, a builder or a construction supervisor with at least 10 years experience, according to building code standards.

In addition, no more than two members on the board can be of the same profession. At least one of the members must be a professional engineer or civil engineer.

"I'm really in favor of this," Councilmember Russell Lambert said. "I want to see it fly. Anyone who wants to build here would be affected."

Members of the new city board would be compensated at $40 per year. The chairman would receive $50.

If this unofficial search for members by the city is unsuccessful, McAnally said she will advertise for applicants.

Auto theft suspect is arrested

A 29-year-old Detroit man was arrested early March 20 for attempted auto theft from a Romulus hotel parking lot.

James A. Bryant was arraigned the same day before Judge William Szlinis in the 34th District Court. Bryant was charged with attempted unauthorized driving away of an automobile.

A personal bond was set at $5,000.

Bryant was to return to court March 28 for a preliminary exam.

The morning of Bryant's arrest, Romulus police officers spotted him in a hotel parking lot along the 8200 block of Merriman Road. The defendant was reportedly walking through the lot, police said.

Shortly after, police claim they noticed the man in a nearby lot, inside a 1989 Ford Aerostar. After watching the man, police began to suspect a theft attempt.

Further investigation revealed the van belonged to a local rental agency. A passenger window had been broken.

The written summary of alternatives submitted by McKenna Associates does not support this alternative.

"Retention basin construction would continue to be uncoordinated and haphazard," it states.

It also refers to high construction costs per acre and lower marketability of parcels. Individual sites may not fully remove storm water runoff, the summary reads.

"What's the most feasible way to handle the problem we have? Invest lower cost over 15 years or allow the decision to be made by fewer property owners and pay a higher cost," said Dennis Oakes, Romulus community development director.

City eyes solid waste reduction proposal

A new set of solid-waste disposal and recycling guidelines may be adopted by the city.

Mayor Beverly McAnally Monday night presented city councilmembers with a downriver waste reduction program formulated by Riverview city officials.

"I want you to look at that. If you have some recommendations, something you want to enter there, we can do that," she said.

McAnally told councilmembers some of the guidelines presented by Riverview may match soon-to-be-adopted county requirements. Wayne County officials are working on a plan designed to drastically reduce solid waste.

Riverview was required to develop a recycling program and impose it on customers to receive county approval for a landfill expansion. Romulus is a Riverview landfill customer.

The waste-reduction plan also includes information from a recent study by the Downriver Community Conference.

The plan groups a community-based recycling program with a regional Material Recovery Facility that would be financed by bonds, gate fees and a state grant.

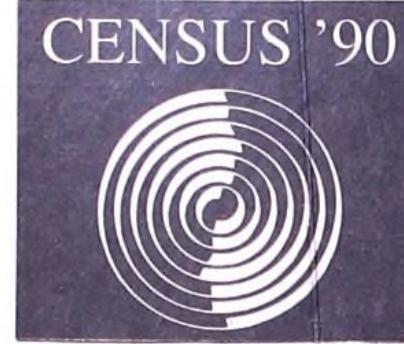

Net proceeds generated by the sale of the recyclables would be shared with participating communities.

The deadline for indicating interest in the Riverview plan is July 1, 1990. Romulus city officials intend to stage a study session on the issue before making a decision.

Census information will not, by law, be available to welfare agencies, the Internal Revenue Service, the Immigration and Naturalization Service, courts, police or the military. No one in the Census Bureau, neither a census taker nor any other employee of the bureau, can reveal any information gathered in the census to anyone outside the Census Bureau. Workers violating this law are subject to penalties up to five years in prison or $5,000 in fines.

Every household in the country was sent a census form March 23, but what happens to the information after each citizen has completed the form and sent it back to the Census Bureau? Plenty. One of the initial needs for a census in this country was to establish a truly representative government to sit in the two houses of Congress. While this representative apportionment continues after 200 years, the uses of the census have expanded from

The 1990 census records will be kept confidential for 72 years.

Once the Census Bureau receives a returned questionnaire, the temporary workforce of 300,000 begins its work. If a census form is incomplete, a census employee will contact the citizen to obtain the necessary information. The answers on the questionnaires are then combined with other answers from other people to produce statistical totals for different geographic areas.

Census officials are strident in pointing out it is these totals—not individual responses from citizens—which are published and put to many uses.

Census population counts for each state must be reported to the president within nine months of Census Day, April 1. The president then sends to the clerk of the House of Representatives the number of representatives each state will be allowed. The clerk informs each state governor.

By April 1 of the following year, the Census Bureau releases information to the states to draw congressional and legislative district boundaries.

The federal government uses the results to determine representation to the U.S. House of Representatives. Government officials in Michigan will use the totals to allocate seats in the legislature.

Based on the result of the census, billions of dollars in federal funds are returned to states, local governments and even Indian reservations.

Census data is used by Michigan legislators to return funds to cities and counties.

Planners and developers use census data to determine where to locate hospitals, day care centers, schools and senior citizen centers.

Businesses use the results to help make decisions involving expansion, which can mean new jobs.

Hard to believe, but filling out the little form from the U.S. government can do all that good at no cost to an individual.

It only costs if that little form is not filled out.

adding census answers were posted on trees and buildings.

Through the years, the census has undergone considerable changes.

- From 1790 to 1860 the census asked about slave status.

- In 1820, questions about citizenship appeared.

- Residents were asked about physical and mental health starting in 1830.

- Employment became a census question in 1880.

- In 1850, housing questions appeared on the census, but they referred to buildings for slaves. Housing questions as they are known today started in 1940.

- In 1970, the census began to ask residents if they are of Hispanic origin.

- Until the 1960 census, questionnaires were completed by enumerators who went door-to-door. Now the forms are sent by mail.

- Near the turn of the century, census results were coded using the Hooerith punch card and an electric tabulating system—a forerunner of the modern computer.

Romulus officials promote Census Day

Romulus city officials have taken on a new responsibility this year—they are acting as promoters, spreading the word about the census.

Jeffrey Martell of the community development office has been responsible for most of this project, sending census reminders to senior citizen complexes and public housing areas.

Posters and flyers about the census have been posted throughout city buildings, Romulus schools and some local businesses.

For promotional projects, Martell distributed census flyers to pizza parlors and "sub shops." The owners agreed to attach a flyer to each customer order.

All the materials carry the same message. They urge people to complete their forms and send them back during the first week of April.

Martell explained most people have received their census material in the mail by now. The ideal situation, he said, is for everyone to return their completed forms in the next two weeks.

Questionnaires must be completed with a number two pencil.

By mid-April, Martell continued, census offices will have counted the number of forms returned.

At that point, enumerators are sent home-to-home, asking people if they've returned their questionnaires. Enumerators are armed with extra forms and can answer questions about completing them.

For now, however, the goal is a community well-informed about the census. Martell said he received permission from school officials to distribute informational flyers to students next week.

In addition, he said, local teachers have been provided with information packets from the census bureau to be used in history or civics classes.

The city is also utilizing cable television to spread the word. Until April 5, the local station will show a brief video with an introduction by Mayor Beverly McAnally and Mayor Pro Tem Randolph Gear.

Martel said he hopes the promotion will receive support from local clergy. He has approached several churches, asking pastors to discuss the census April 1.

Census information is kept 'top secret'

Granted, census forms do ask rather personal questions—age, marital status, religion, employment situations.

Nevertheless, the government and social agencies who use census information can never connect census answers to the people who supply them. The census bureau only releases numbers and statistical information, according to Ann Duse, district office manager for the Dearborn census facility.

Duse said census bureau employees are sworn to secrecy, literally.

"They swear they will not divulge any information they have the opportunity to see," she said.

Another safety net is that census data is protected by federal law, Title 13 of the U.S. Code.

"That law required every bit of information will be protected from public knowledge," Duse said. "We will not release information about an individual."

The census bureau, however, does store the information it collects.

Youths sing of rights

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Ann Reynolds' students had a taste of show business last week when they performed a musical skit for the entire student body at Halcreek Elementary School.

Reynolds works with students with learning disabilities, mainly at the fifth- and sixth-grade levels. The idea for the skit originated with a lesson about civil rights activists taught during Black History Month.

Reynolds played a song for her students by the Neville Brothers about Rosa Parks. The black Detroit woman helped spark the civil rights movement in the 1950s when she refused to give up her bus seat to a white person.

The Neville Brothers song was an immediate hit with the students.

"It fit in with what we were studying," Reynolds said.

Her students' reaction sparked Reynolds' idea for a musical presentation of Parks' life.

"I was looking for something my students could do that would put them in the spotlight," she said.

Once they started practicing, some of the students mastered lyrics with more ease than their spelling lessons, Reynolds said. Eventually, the students added movement to the presentation and started to collect props.

At the same time, music teacher Judy Thompson enlisted two general education students to offer back-up instrumental music, a conga drum and a cymbal.

"That element was really great," Reynolds said, commenting on the partnership among the students.

Originally, the students had planned to perform for other fifth- and sixth-graders, but when they gained confidence in their act they decided to sing for the entire student body. The shows were staged March 21 and 22.

Students in the audience were impressed with the performance, Reynolds said.

"They were kind of surprised... 'Hey,' these kids are pretty neat!'"

After their final show, the performers received a standing ovation from the audience.

Mature workers find employment

By DIANNE THOMAS
ANP News Editor

Mature workers are finding new opportunities through the senior community employment program of the American Association of Retired Persons.

Joan Hulet serves as project director of the AARP effort to help seniors who want to work again. The project is funded by the U.S. Labor Department.

"For some time, business concerns have been preparing for a greater share of the market after having experienced many pitfalls with present-day labor deficiencies," Hulet said.

According to Hulet, the project provides part-time employment for seniors, ages 55 and older, with public service agencies. The employees are paid under a Title V grant.

Job developers with AARP also work in cooperation with the private business sector to create and locate positions for seniors.

Seniors are placed in non-profit or public service agency positions for 20 hours per week to receive on-the-job training.

During this period, the seniors work with Hulet and other staff members to locate permanent work with private sector employers or with the host agency.

Among the positions for which the seniors are trained are activities coordinator, bookkeeper, cashier, typist, data entry clerk, day care worker, security guard, and teacher's aide.

In western Wayne County, several non-profit institutions are staffed by seniors from the project including the Fisher Library and the area museum in Belleville, the Department of Social Services in Inkster, Family and Neighborhood Services and the senior center in Romulus, and the township hall and mini-post office in Sumpter Township.

Hulet said the program needs both employers and prospective employees to participate.

"We're always conducting campaigns for more seniors to join the program because we are constantly reminded by personnel executives of their search for experienced older workers," Hulet said.

"There are currently job openings for seniors who must meet Title V guidelines, but we also assist those who don't qualify under the guidelines," she said.

AARP will have information on the senior employment program available at the 1990 Job Fair April 24 at the Wayne County Community College campus on Northline in Taylor.

The job fair is co-sponsored by AARP and 10 other local organizations including the Southern Wayne County Chamber of Commerce.

Safety is stressed in wake of accidents

By DIANNE THOMAS
ANP News Editor

Police in western Wayne County were recently called to the scene of two separate accidents involving railroad trains.

Two weeks ago, the bodies of two teenagers were found in Wayne after they had reportedly hitched a ride on a train in Jackson.

On March 4, a Canton Township man was found dead after his vehicle reportedly became stuck on the tracks. Evidence showed that the man had tried to move his car before it was struck by an Amtrak train.

Railroad safety in urban areas continues to be a concern for residents and railroad officials.

"Conrail places great importance on getting vital safety messages to the public," said Conrail Senior Vice President-Operations Donald A. Swanson.

The railroad, which controls the tracks involved in both accidents, has developed a public education program promoting safety. The program was seen by more than 790,000 adults and youngsters in 1989.

The Conrail program attempts to educate the public in such basic lessons as "don't try to beat the train at railroad crossings" and "don't play on railroad property," according to Conrail officials.

The Conrail safety program is part of Operation Lifesaver, a national campaign to reduce the number of accidents at railroad-highway intersections. Operation Lifesaver is sponsored cooperatively by federal, state, and local government agencies, civic organizations, and railroads across the nation.

The Operation Lifesaver mobile exhibit is a 45-foot highway trailer equipped with working grade crossing lights, computer quizzes, photographs, and booklets. The unit visits cities on the 13,000-mile Conrail system.

Among the features of the exhibit is a video simulation of a grade crossing accident from the locomotive engineer's point of view.

In the simulation, a visitor to the exhibit sits at the engineer's control stand, which is equipped with a throttle, air-brake, speedometer, and horn. Through the television screen "window" the viewer encounters an automobile at a grade crossing ahead. When the viewer attempts to stop the train, he finds it is impossible to do so and can only watch as the car is demolished.

Conrail also attempts to educate the public, especially young people, through the use of films and games, according to James J. Kelly, director of community relations for Conrail. Central to the program is a film called "Trespass."

"We will go into any school that makes a request," Kelly said.

The film is shown, then students have an opportunity to ask questions of a railroad police officer, Kelly said.

Students of all ages may view the film. There is also a special follow-up project for younger students, according to Kelly.

For information on Conrail safety presentations call 323-5167.

Sheriff supports actions in court

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano defended his actions in establishing traffic checkpoints to thwart drug buying and dealing in Inkster last September.

During his three hours of testimony in Wayne County Circuit Court before Judge James Rashid, Ficano repeatedly defended the action "because of the unnatural and unorthodox traffic in the area." He cited the United States Court of Appeals decision in the U.S. vs. McFayden case as the basis for his actions.

In the McFayden case, heard Jan. 24, 1989 by an Appeals Court in Washington D.C., the court upheld checkpoints if those stops were made at fixed traffic roadblocks or on reasonable suspicion.

The Michigan chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, along with State Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) and former mayor of Inkster, Edward Bivens, have sued the county sheriff on the basis that the checkpoints violate the rights of motorists from unreasonable search and seizure.

Ficano on Tuesday also described the chain of events that led to his decision to place the checkpoints in Inkster. He said that his decision came only after meeting with Inkster city officials and Police Chief Terry Colwell.

Under cross-examination by ACLU attorney Deborah Gordon, Ficano reiterated his position that the checkpoints have been upheld by the courts, that stops of vehicles are permissible if made at fixed traffic checkpoints or on reasonable suspicion.

Howard Simon, executive director of the Michigan American Civil Liberties Union, has labeled the sheriff's blockade as "a deceitful law enforcement and a public relations stunt in direct violation of the Constitution."

Last week, Inkster Police Chief Colwell also appeared before Judge Rashid and offered his testimony, which surrounded the concerns of transient drug purchasers in the city. He said the checkpoints "had substantially reduced the transients."

Asked by Gordon what prompted him to seek county aid, Colwell said the city had only limited resources and manpower and could not have carried out the mission on its own.

In September, during a three-hour operation around the Demby public housing project, deputies, working with Inkster police, stopped 76 motorists and issued 44 tickets for offenses that included failing to use a child safety seat, driving without a valid license or car registration. There were also arrests on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and outstanding drunken driving warrants, according to Nancy Mouradian, public relations spokeswoman for the sheriff's department.

Some 20 witnesses are expected to testify. The trial resumes at 9 a.m. tomorrow in Judge Rashid's courtroom. Inkster city officials, along with some of those who were issued tickets during the September checkpoints also have been subpoenaed to testify.

Weight Loss Pill 'Baffles' Scientists

WASHINGTON - Scientists are baffled by a new weight loss formula that causes people to lose weight even though they don't change the way they normally eat.

Studies published in respected scientific journals such as The British Journal of Nutrition say that cyanopsis tetragonolobus, an ingredient often used to thicken ice cream, can cause permanent weight loss without dieting or exercise. Although several explanations for the weight loss are suggested, the most likely according to scientists is that the ingredient seems to "trap" high calorie fat particles, decreasing their absorption in the intestines.

Scientists at National Dietary Research, an organization committed to the research and development of nutritional solutions to world-wide health problems, have successfully isolated and incorporated cyanopsis tetra gonolobus into an improved formula that greatly enhances the potential for weight loss over the ingredient alone. Called Food Source One, the revolutionary new formula provides a three-way scientifically designed process to help prevent calorie absorption.

The mechanism by which Food Source One works to decrease body weight is a complicated process called nutri-bonding. When chewed and swallowed immediately before meals, high calorie fats are replaced with lower calorie nutrients, thereby providing optimum nutrition and a minimum number of fat calories as explained in an instruction sheet that accompanies the tablets. The instruction sheet should be followed for optimum results.

Food Source One is unlike any other product on the market and is available immediately because it is not a drug and only contains natural ingredients already known to be safe. Physicians and pharmacists are praising Food Source One as a natural, drug free alternative for the treatment of obesity.

Available in chocolate, vanilla or strawberry. A 100 tablet supply only $24.98.

Romulus hotel taken over by new owners

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Pickett Suite Inn has seen two major changes this month - a new name and a new employment philosophy.

The Romulus facility now houses Guest Quarters Suite Hotel. The hotel was renamed as part of the acquisition of the 11-hotel Pickett Suite chain by the Boston-based Guest Quarters Suite Hotel chain.

General Manager Kevin McPherson said the hotel staff has been working since December to complete the transformation. For one thing, he said, the staff had to track down all the items marked with the old hotel name - soap, matchbooks, television remote controls, coffee makers, glassware.

"There's just a myriad of tiny details," McPherson said. In tune with the company changes, McPherson March 14 announced an employment program that will provide jobs for the mentally impaired. He signed an employment agreement with Westland-based Tinkham Center, an area program for the impaired.

Tinkham Center coordinates

several employment activities for clients, according to Director Chuck Stockwell. At Guest Quarters, clients will work part time handling laundry. Training will be conducted on the job, and workers will rely on assistance from a job coach.

Currently, Stockwell's staff is conducting task analysis at Guest Quarters by breaking down the laundry process - collecting, washing, drying, folding and returning the laundry to the proper place.

Clients will probably begin with folding and move on to more responsibility as they are trained. The more responsibility they have, the more the workers will be paid.

Ultimately, Stockwell said, he hopes to place four or five full-time workers at the hotel. Already, he said, the clients are excited about the potential job opportunity.

"Our clients love being in the community. One went to Guest Quarters for the conversion ceremony. He's been bugging me everyday about going back there," Stockwell said. "They're very interested in being there. They're very interested in making money."

McPherson said he is also excited about the employment program.

"On the selfish side, we'll have the laundry fully staffed. On the other side, we're helping some people come into the work force," he said. "And hopefully we'll be breaking down some barriers. Any business needs to have responsibility in the community it's in."

Additional changes in store for the hotel staff, Guest Quarters requires an extensive training program for employees, somewhat different than the Pickett Suite program. For now, McPherson said, he is combining the pro-

"No one starts work in the hotel without an orientation program. No one is simply put in a job."

McPherson added the hotel is starting an employee empowerment program, which will enable workers to handle some customer concerns without consulting a supervisor.

"The real intent is to catch things in advance," he said.

Guest Quarters Suite Hotel announced the completed conversion March 14 during a ceremony for city officials and area residents.

Hospital offers computerized admissions system to save time

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

When staff members at Beyer Hospital say, "We're quick to admit," it's more than just an expression. It's a statement about a new registration process, United Care Express.

The computerized registration process is described by Dr. Sunil Bhateria, chief of staff, as "patient friendly," and is designed to allow patients to bypass the cumbersome process of filling out forms and answering insurance questions before they see a health professional.

Under the new system, recently introduced at the United Care facility, participating patients will carry a United Care Express Card, which contains all of their personal and insurance information. When a patient arrives at Beyer hospital as an emergency case or for in-patient or outpatient services, a registration clerk simply runs the card through a "reader" that automatically transfers the patient information to the computer terminal. In a matter of a few minutes, the clerk can confirm the information and register the patient.

The new registration system resulted from patient and surveys that revealed most patients did not like the long, complicated registration process. In addition, it was difficult for those who were seriously ill or in discomfort to accurately provide the necessary information for the former registration process, the surveys noted.

"With the new computerized registration system, our patients spend less time in the lobby by more time with a physician or other health professional," said Mary Finn, acting administrator of Beyer hospital. "The card guarantees express service to anyone who may need to receive outpatient services or emergency room treatment as well as those who see physicians at Beyer hospital."

Beyer hospital offers a full range of health care services, including a 24-hour emergency room, obstetrics/gynecology, medical/surgical and intensive care units, one-day surgery, outpatient diagnostic testing and rehabilitative services.

United Care is the only health care system in southeast Michigan to have a registration system like United Care Express, said a Beyer Hospital spokesman. A unique feature of the program is that patients carry their own personal information on a magnetic strip on the card, rather than the information being stored in a main computer network.

Applications for United Care Express cards are available by calling Beyer, 484-2400.

Kosteva plan lacks logic, consideration

Sometimes, really smart people do some really dumb things.

That's the only explanation we can think of for Rep. Jim Kosteva's recent action in sponsoring House Bill 5616 which would change the definition of newspapers as it now exists in state law.

Kosteva's proposed changes would allow any publication to be considered a proper vehicle for the printing of official legal notices as required by the state. He would abandon the present provisions which require publication at "not less than weekly intervals". And he would further change the law which now demands that to qualify to print legal notices, a publication must have been in business or general circulation for one year (two years if it is a free publication.) Kosteva would also abandon the state requirement that the publication contain at least 25 percent editorial content, allowing shoppers and coupon books to now qualify to print minutes of official meetings.

We heartily disagree with Kosteva's logic and reasoning in even proposing such changes and question his motives in doing so. Obviously, one of our objections is purely selfish and has to do with the fee paid by municipalities and state-governed public officials to print these notices. We consider ourselves privileged to enjoy that revenue. Now that we've admitted to avarice, let's get to our more serious objections.

One of the strongest is the quality and editorial responsibility of many of the publications which would now qualify as newspapers, should Kosteva prevail in the legislature and actually convince other state representatives that there is any merit to these changes. The publication of these notices is a public trust. They must be correct, they must be on time and they must be treated with respect and dignity.

It is an honor and a privilege for any newspaper to be able to declare itself as the official newspaper of the community it serves. It is an honor that should be earned, and not a distinction given lightly. It means the publisher has paid his dues and earned the right to this honor by continuing to publish without financial subsidies from any municipality, protecting the rights of the people to unbiased and objective news. Thomas Jefferson noted that the only truly free press was a financially independent one. He was right 200 years ago, and he's right today.

If a publication is at the mercy of any government body or political office holder who controls the purse strings, the news can be controlled. Our founding fathers didn't think that was a real good idea, and neither do we. Pravda, the Russian conveyer of news is subsidized by the government, and these changes could result in the same type of news at a local level in our state.

Kosteva's changes would allow any wino, political flunkie or radical with the means to pay a printer to set up a municipally funded "newspaper" and become no more than a government mouthpiece of propaganda or a vehicle of pure ego, self-aggrandizement, personal opinion and prejudice.

Municipal notices should be printed in a real newspaper. One with an objective reporting staff which provides the truth as they find it without regard for the financial consequences and without personal prejudice and opinion in the news section. A real newspaper has strong opinions, such as this one, and prints them, clearly labeled as opinions, on the editorial page. They are not ever disguised as news.

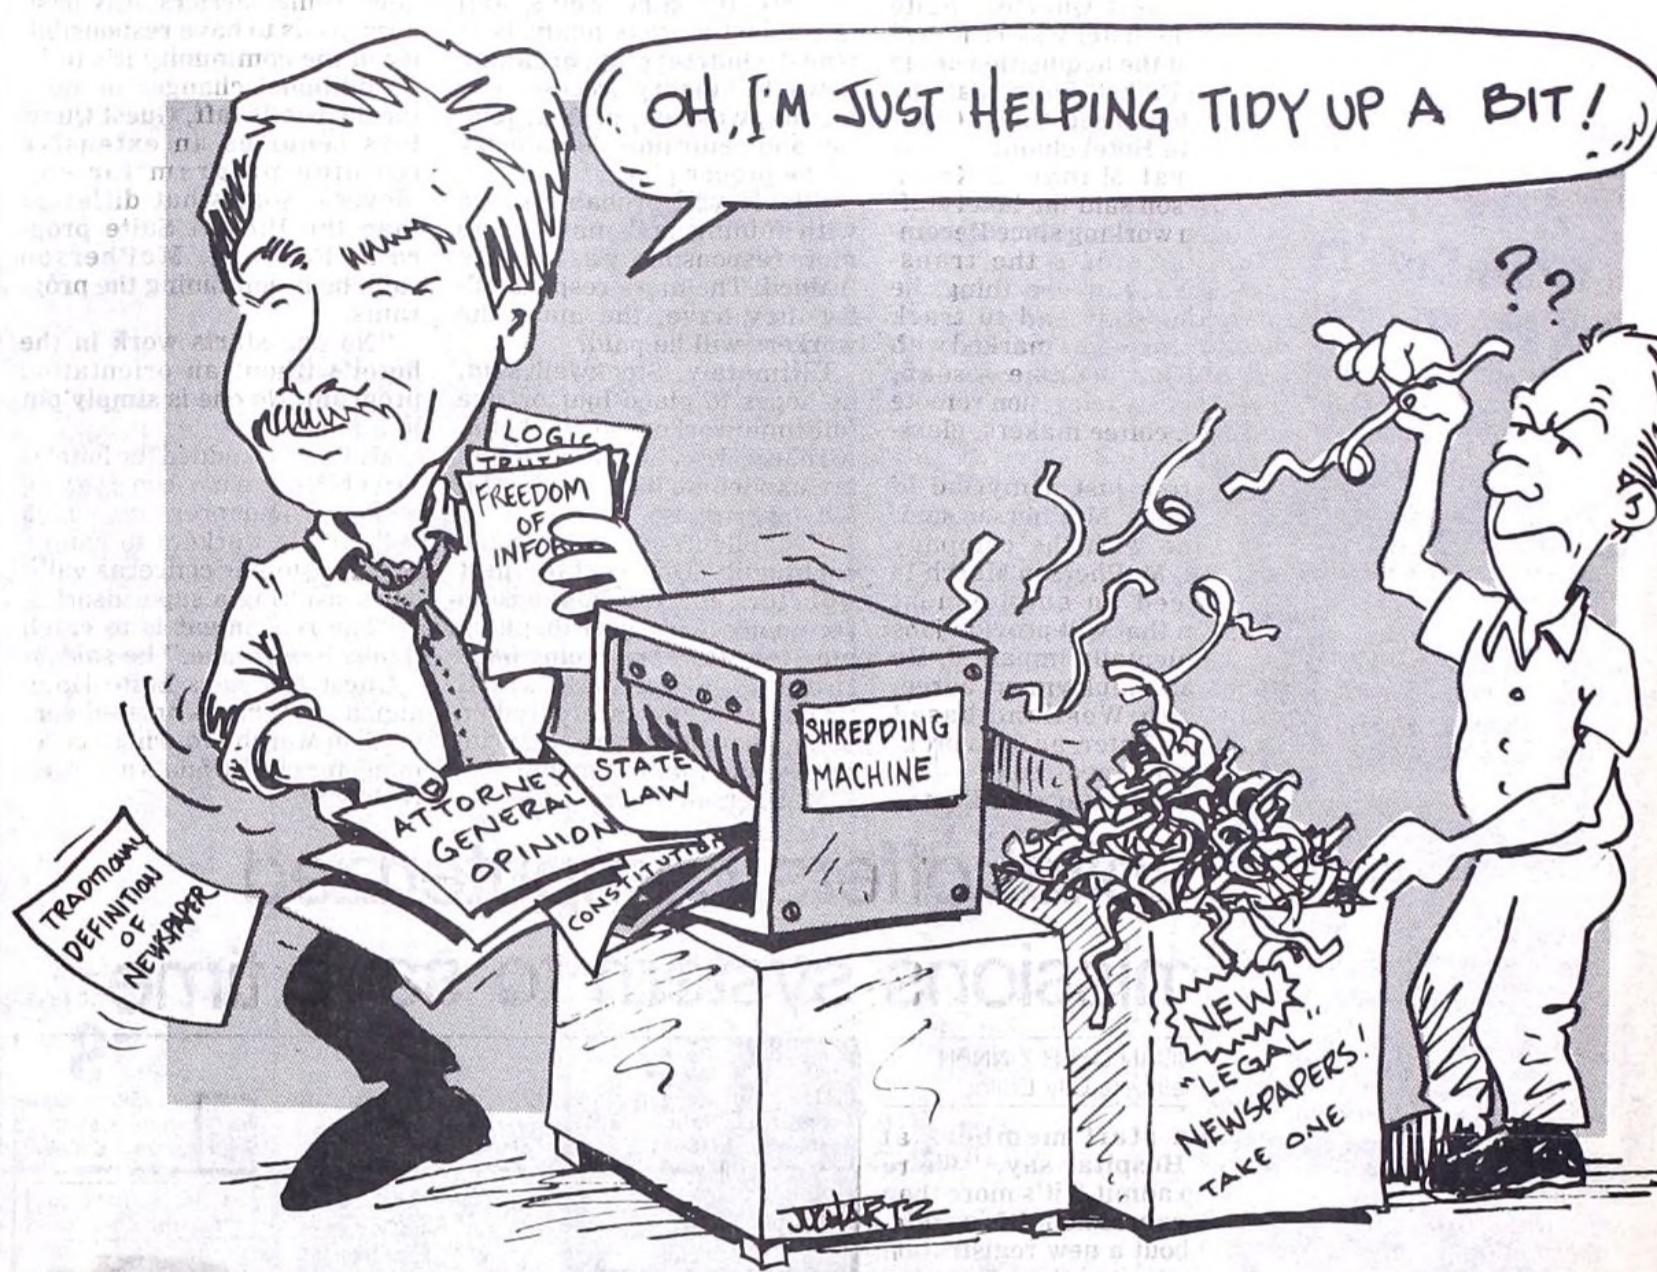

Kosteva claims his motive is to "allow more access to information." We suspect it may have more to do with political pressure from friends and supporters with financial gains in mind.

An equally troubling aspect of the situation, however, is that Jim Kosteva, long a man we have personally admired and respected, would take such a step without first doing some homework. Did he do any research on the impact of such changes?

The answer is no, he did not.

It would be less than appropriate to print the Congressional Record in the National Enquirer and it is a travesty of the same level to consider this change. This is an insult to the respectability and dignity of municipalities and to the intelligence and maturity of the citizens who take an active role in their local government.

It is an assault on the freedom of the press that Kosteva claims he is attempting to protect.

Kosteva plan is nonsense

I only hope that those that read Jim Kosteva's fall survey really see what he is doing under the guise of preventing crime.

A mental background check before a person can purchase a gun? He knows this is impossible, no doctor would divulge the information.

Notice a criminal background check before a person can get a permit, notice a new law, a permit to purchase a rifle or shotgun, of course there would be a stiff fee if this nonsense should be enacted.

I would like to know where all these hideous crimes are being committed with automatic weapons? More Kosteva blue smoke and mirrors.

When has a legally owned fully automatic weapon been used in a crime? Never!

The naivete of Kosteva shows why we need a part-time legislature.

More taxes don't help schools

I have received my new property tax assessment this week - up 8.6 percent. I'm sure other local residents were as thrilled as I was. But this seems like a good time to remind people that rising assessments do not directly translate into more money for Van Buren Schools.

LETTERS

Because we are "in formula", our state school aid is reduced when local taxes rise in this way. The only way for us to bring in significantly more money for the schools is by raising our millage rate. Then, our state aid increases even more than our taxes do.

If you think this system is unfair, please complain to the governor and the state legislature. The school board can't do anything about it. And neither can the students whose options are limited by our currently austere budget. They can't wait for school finance reform. Their school careers are passing now.

Martha Toth
Belleville

I would like to contribute to the discussion of recent events in our city government. Having been a Councilman and Mayor for over 12 years should qualify me to make the following observations:

First of all, let me set the record straight - Inkster isn't known nationally for firing city managers, since a city manager has never been fired in Inkster until now. Unfortunately, Mr. Holmes holds the distinction. He also holds another distinction where city managers are concerned: that is he was the only city manager hired on a four/three vote of the council and only a second manager promoted from within, minus a national search. Also, he came in as the former mayor, Betty Miller was on her way out. So the seeds for discord were sown early on and some of the same people who planted them are now crying foul.

For the record, Ralph DeSantis, Sylvester Murray, Dave Williams, Wylie Williams and Gregory Knowles, all former city managers, left Inkster by resignation to accept positions elsewhere.

I do recognize, nonetheless, that citizens may feel frustrated, angry and maybe even anxious about the disruption in the order of things but it happens and life goes on. Sure, there will be a short period of instability as the transition occurs, that's to be expected, but things always seem to work out in the end. What we need now is patience, not hysteria. I've seen in cities with a strong Mayor/Council form of government where the whole administrative staff is replaced every two years. Westland just went through a major overhaul with hardly a whisper there.

The point is our city charter, the one we voted for by a great majority, specifically states...The City Manager, shall be appointed by the Council for an indefinite period, shall be responsible to and serve at the pleasure of the Council. Which simply means that at any time, if a majority of the Council (any four members, including the Mayor) are displeased with the manager's performance they may let him go.

Finally, I would urge my fellow citizens to be tolerant of their Council, allow Mr. Holmes, the right of privacy and not join in a precipitous act of vengeance to recall the Council. In time, it will all work out as it usually does.

Health program is misread

What's black and white and misread all over? Most definitely the criteria being promoted in the "comprehensive health program" entitled MICHIGAN MODEL or WELLNESS CURRICULUM! I would have to say that the pictures in this year's calendar were by far what impressed me the most. I found the contrast between the past and the present in each set of photographs interesting and fun to look at. I was surprised to see how much some things have changed, while others have remained nearly the same, over the years. I would like to thank those whose efforts to made the 1990 calendar for the City of Westland something to be proud of. Very Nice!

I don't think they'll win first place, but they'll finish near the top. I like the fact that they got Moseby and Dan Petry back.

Adventure comes at high price

Just Desserts

Sue Willett

Sometimes, adventure has a high price.

Last week, while in Washington, my spouse and I agreed to participate in one of the National Newspaper Association dinner outings. Usually, this is a great time. The association staff, all D.C. natives, choose three or four super restaurants that will take huge crowds, and book reservations for us. Our fellow adventurers pile out of the hotel, into buses and off we go for what is usually a great time. We get to meet new people, and try restaurants we normally wouldn't know about.

This year, I'd rather have had dinner with Ronald McDonald or a club sandwich at the hotel. The best thing about the evening this year was the bus ride. We had a wonderful driver who kept up a terrific commentary on Washington during the ride to our "French" restaurant in Georgetown.

The place was totally unprepossessing, but, hey, thought the collective crowd, you can't tell much by looks, and the staff HAD recommended it, right? They wouldn't do us wrong, would they? Yep. They would and they did, only I don't think it was deliberate.

Most of the servers wore roller skates and swooped through the place like gliding cranes loaded with trays of food and glassware. There was only one crash, if you don't count the near fistfight later in the evening.

Part of the arrangement is that everyone gets the same dinner, and believe it or not, this crowd is usually full of good sports about it. This year, however, when we were served mahi-mahi, which is a type of dolphin or porpoise, things got ugly. There were a lot of plates returned to the kitchen untouched and a great deal of rumbling about "Flipper."

The entertainment for the evening was provided by some good-spirited, although pseudotalented, young people who managed to offend a number of people in the crowd. The first song The Big Bamboo set the tone for the evening – and it went downhill from there. The best laugh came when one publisher's wife yanked the robe of a voluptuous singer closed as she provocatively crooned into his, er, proximity.

So, forced to provide our own entertainment, we came up with a great gag to pull on our illustrious vice president who is notorious for his love of desserts. We were served small (SMALL) bowls of ice cream, and Bruce (the vice president) immediately went searching through the crowd to see if there were any unwanted portions he might solicit. He didn't succeed. So, thought our gang, let's send him six bowls of ice cream and tell him we all sacrificed our dessert for him. We did, everyone roared with laughter, Bruce ate the ice cream and a good time was had by all.

Until the check was presented and we were charged $30 for the ice cream. They also charged us $4 each for Cokes, and $6 for mixed drinks.

The joke was on us.

But, there are good things about D.C. and here are two of my favorite recipes, indigenous to the area.

Woman presents a meal with a taste of Germany

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

On one plate is Polish sausage, sauerkraut and potato dumplings – it sounds like a sampling from an all-you-can-eat ethnic festival.

Clara Jackson has drawn from her background – a Polish mother and German father – to master that particular meal. Serving it, she tells guests not to feel obligated to clean their plates, that sauerkraut is sometimes an acquired taste.

Alone in her Westland apartment, Jackson rarely prepares all that food for herself these days, but she said she loves the opportunity to prepare it for others. Her nieces and nephews are her biggest fans. They always request her sauerkraut meal for family gatherings.

For Jackson, her recipes for sausage and dumplings are part of her heritage.

"There were eight of us in the family," she said, describing the Detroit home where she grew up. "I was the youngest of the lot."

Beneath the house was a tiny dirt basement used for storing winter vegetables – cabbage, rutabaga, parsnip and potatoes. Jackson's mother often sent her to the basement to fetch part of dinner.

"Was I ever scared to crawl in that dark hole to get those vegetables," she said.

To feed a family of 10, Jackson's mother practically needed one head of cabbage per person to make a batch of sauerkraut. In the kitchen were large boards of wood with blades of metal for grating. Jackson's mother worked with the cabbage in layers, salting each batch as she went.

"That would keep all winter."

Another family specialty was the kielbasa. Preparing it was a big event. Everybody helped, Jackson said.

"It was really a family affair. I'm tired when I think of it."

They started with ground meat seasoned with pepper, garlic and salt. More time-consuming was preparing animal intestines for use as casings. Jackson and her family soaked the casings for weeks in salt and brine and then rinsed it before packing.

They used a meat grinder with a spout to pack the meat, twisting the intestine to seal it. The final product was pretty good, Jackson said.

Jackson said her mother also made duck or blood soup, a holiday dish. Of course not all of her cooking had an ethnic flavor.

"My mother cooked a lot of American foods, too."

At 82, Jackson still prepares homemade meals for herself. Her favorites are vegetable soup, chicken soup and roasts. She agreed to share the secrets to her special sauerkraut meal, along with a dessert to accompany it.

For success with the sauerkraut, she said, do not use it straight from the can.

"It needs to be rinsed thoroughly," she warned.

She also recommends Silver Floss sauerkraut for best results.

As for the potato dumplings, Jackson usually prepares them one night in advance to break down the work. Grating the potatoes is the most time-consuming part of preparation, she said.

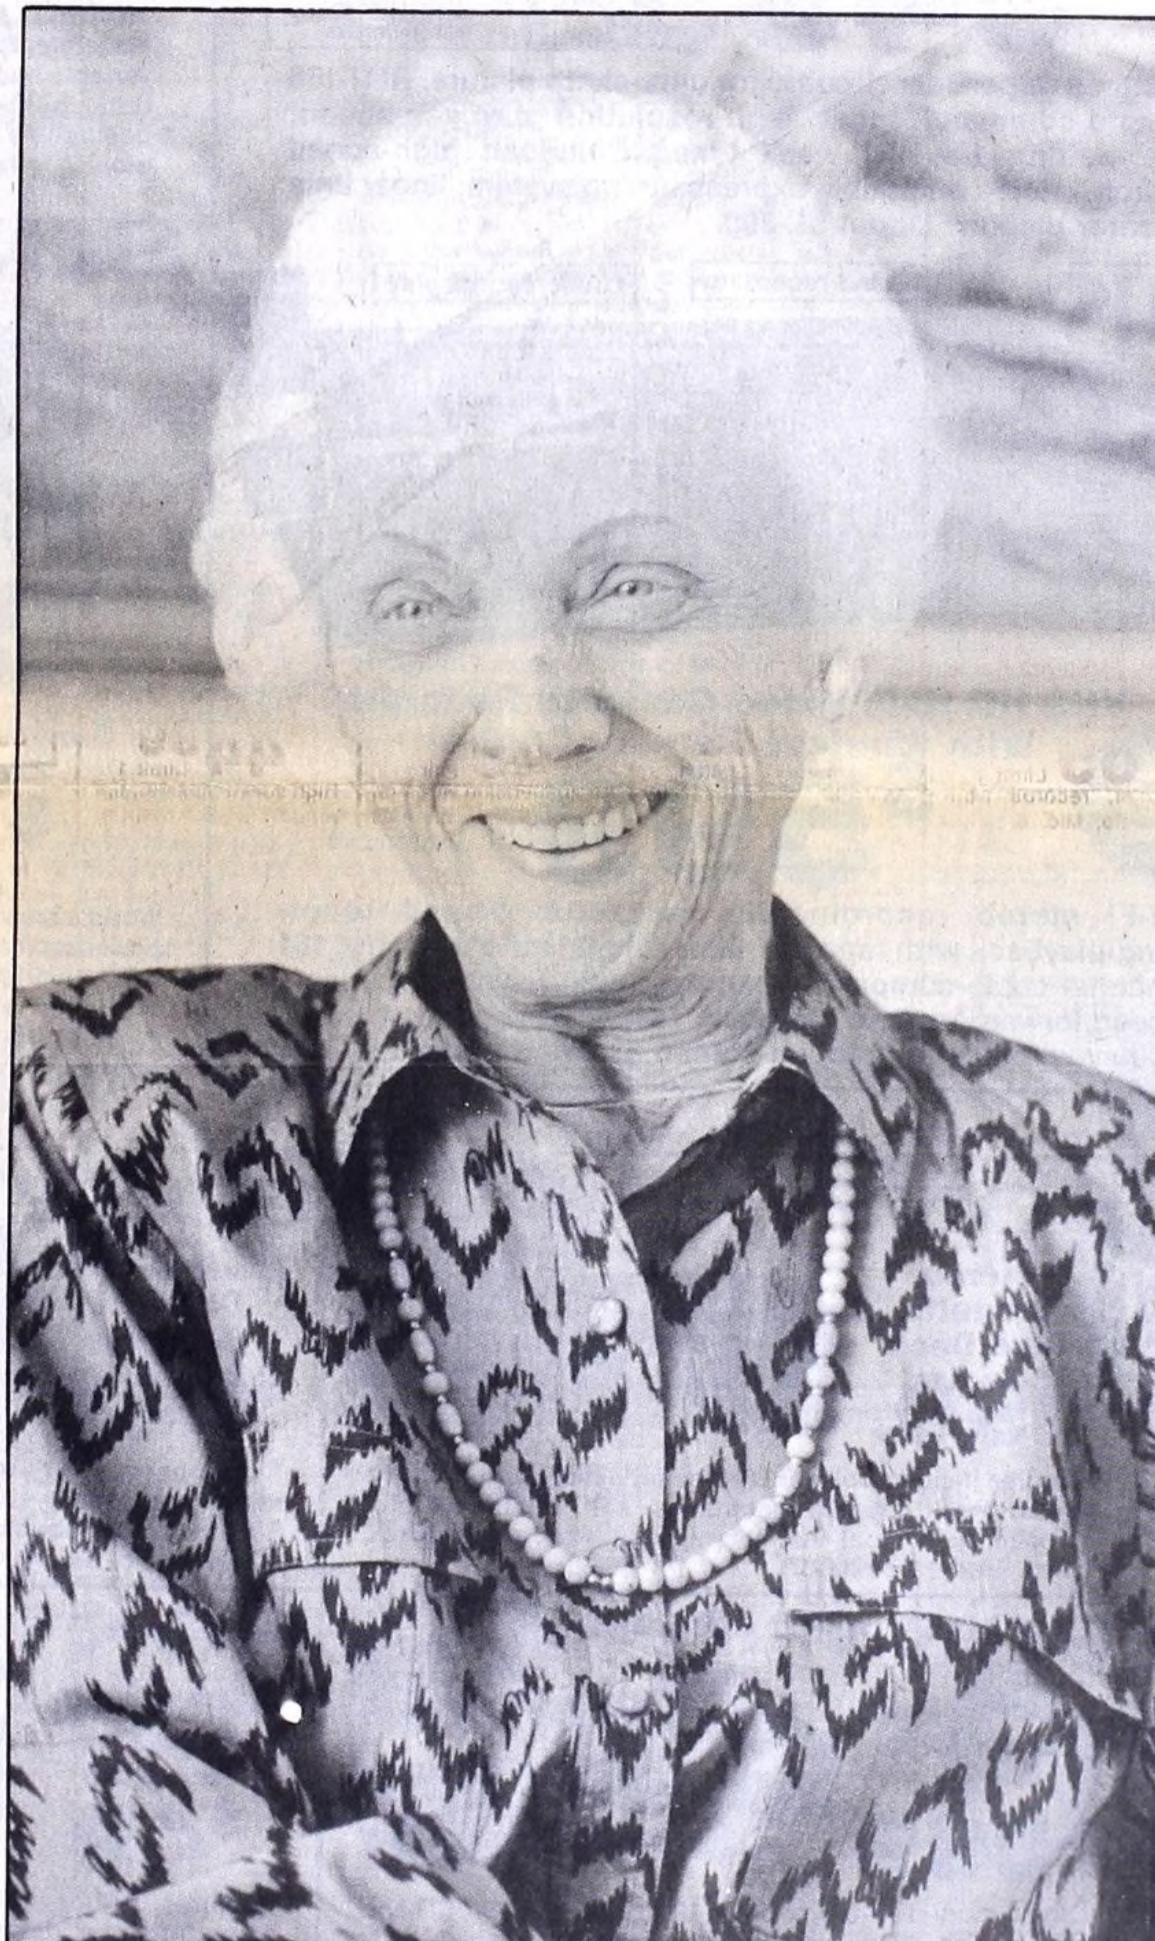

Once completed, Jackson continued, the sauerkraut dish stores well if refrigerated.

Potato dumplings

2 medium potatoes, grated
1 egg
Salt to taste
Flour to make thick batter

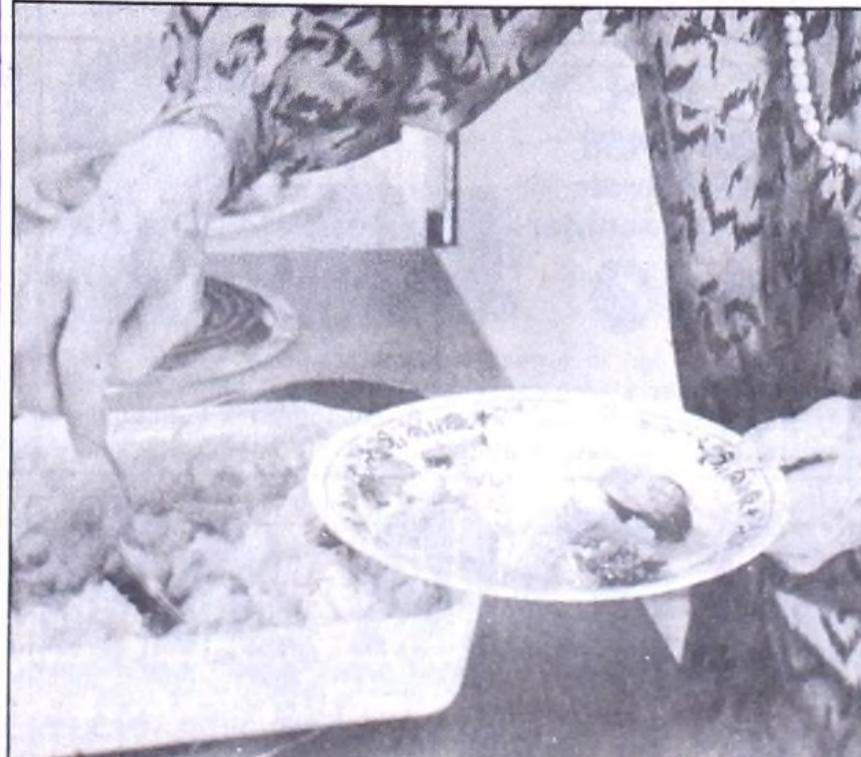

Combine grated potatoes, egg, salt and flour to make thick batter. Drop by spoonful into boiling water. Dumplings should be approximately one inch thick. Boil 10 to 15 minutes. Drain and rinse with cold water. Stir to prevent sticking.

PAID FOR BY TAXPAYERS UNITED FOR ASSESSMENT CUTS, BINGHAM CENTER, SUITE 3685, 30700 TELEGRAPH, BIRMINGHAM, MI 48010 - (313) 647-0370

Richard H. Headlee, Chairman
Taxpayers United for Assessment Cuts

Dear Fellow Taxpayer:

Once again our elected public officials have demonstrated an insensitivity to the plight of the homeowners and the taxpayers in our state. Assessments are rising at significant rates. Individuals are being forced out of their homes and life-long neighborhoods. Callous, insensitive public officials refuse to take meaningful corrective action.

This leaves no alternative to citizens but to take the actions necessary to reduce oppressive unfair property taxes.

Please sign the petition below and obtain the signatures of your neighbors and return it to our headquarters immediately.

Thank you for your assistance in our efforts to roll back your property tax assessments by 20% over the next two years.

Sincerely,

Richard H. Headlee

ACT NOW TO CUT YOUR PROPERTY TAX ASSESSMENT 20%

HEADLEE TAX CUT INITIATIVE

Headlee Tax Cut Initiative will cut your Property Tax Assessment 20%

This is your chance to write your own property tax assessment cut. Counties throughout Michigan have levied 1990 property tax assessments more than double the rate of inflation. That's not fair. If your family is fed up with budget-breaking property tax assessments, join Dick Headlee and Taxpayers United for Assessment Cuts to initiate legislation to:

1. Cut each property tax assessment 10% on December 31, 1990 and approximately 10% the next year.
2. Force the State Legislature to fund from the State General Fund any local revenue lost by the 20% cut.
3. Allow any taxpayer to bring suit in his/her own County Circuit Court to enforce this statute with attorney fees paid by the taxing body at 150% of actual expense if the taxpayer prevails. No cost of any nature shall be levied against a plaintiff taxpayer.

ACTION PLAN for HEADLEE TAX CUT INITIATIVE

- A. Obtain 240,000 signatures of registered voters by May 15.
- B. State Board of Canvassers, Secretary of State has up to 60 days to certify the validity of the signatures.
- C. The Secretary of State will submit the exact petition language, written by taxpayers, to the State Legislature for approval or rejection. The State Legislature has 40 days to adopt or reject the petition language. If the Legislature adopts the petition language, it becomes law.
- D. If the Legislature rejects the petition of taxpayers for the 20% cut on each property tax assessment in Michigan, the petition language will automatically go on the November 6, 1990 General Election Ballot.
- E. If the Legislature fails to respond to taxpayers, and the Headlee Tax Cut Initiative is put on the November 6 Ballot, voters can effectively vote to cut their own property tax assessment by 20%.

Any Michigan voter may sign this petition known as the Headlee Tax Cut Initiative. First make sure that all signers on the same petition are from the same County. You don't have to have all seven spaces filled in. Any number over one is valid if the Circulator portion in the lower right corner is filled in.

Stir in the beaten egg yolks, vanilla and lemon rind. Pour into a well-buttered 9 x 13-inch baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until set. Remove pudding from oven and lower temperature to 250 degrees. Gently spread preserves over the pudding. Beat egg whites until stiff and slowly beat in the remaining sugar. State champ leads coach's dream team

Dale Gehringer, posted a 34-9 won-lost record as a 103-pound sophomore. An athlete whose potential is "boundless", according to Romulus coach Norm Butler, Dale won three invitational titles, including the tough Toledo Waite crown, the Flint Kearsley and Romulus Royal titles. He also picked up a silver medal in the South Central Conference and qualified for the regional tournament after he finished fourth at the district. Dale is also an outstanding student.

Derek Reed, a 112-pounder, is a two-time Wolverine 'A' Conference champ for the Tigers of Belleville. He posted an enviable 43-5 record in his senior year and, although he set a record in falls at 27 and qualified for state in his junior year, an elbow injury denied him an opportunity to compete in the state finals this year. Reed is outstanding on the mats and in the classroom. He is an honor roll student.

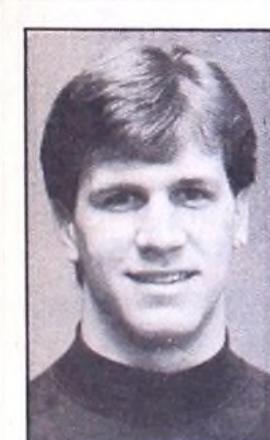

Steven Davis, a 119-pounder, is only a sophomore who has two years varsity competition ahead of him. He has already left an impact on the wrestling scene. Davis compiled a 48-5 record, finished first in the Wolverine 'A', then went on to place fourth at the state finals. He also broke the sophomore record for number of wins in a season. The old mark was 34, held by teammate Michael Braswell. "Steven has already established himself as one of the finest prep wrestlers in the state. The next two years should be interesting ones for him," according to Coach Gerald Malecek.

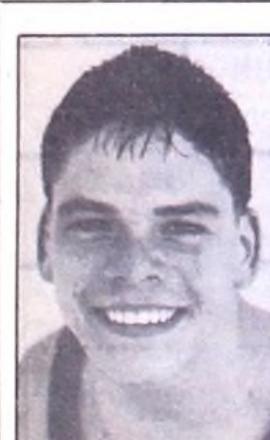

Todd Hendrix is a rare talent. He is a freshman and is already setting new highs for the Tigers of Belleville. His 26-13 won-lost record sets a new mark for the number of victories by a freshman grappler. Freshmen usually don't make it into the all-area lineup, but Hendrix has shown through sheer determination and strength that he deserves the recognition. He has the potential, barring injuries, to become one of the best wrestlers in the state, as well.

Tim Kosikowski was denied an opportunity to prove that he is the best 130-pounder in the state of Michigan. The Romulus high senior was injured early in the campaign and was forced to the sidelines. With a 46-4 won-lost record and more than 100 career victories, Kosikowski ranks among the best prep wrestlers the high school has ever produced. He is a two-time state qualifier and a two-time league champion. And there is little doubt in anyone's mind that a healthy Kosikowski would have captured a gold at the state last month.

Bruce Boyd had a season all athletes dream of. The 135-pound Romulus senior won the state championship. He also won the regional, district and SCC titles and finished with the incredible record of 45-1. A three-time state qualifier, Bruce is a four-year varsity performer for the Eagles. "Bruce is one of the smoothest and most calculating wrestlers I have ever seen. He has been extremely cool, calm, and collected throughout the course of the entire year. He's nicknamed the bruiser and we're going to miss him around here next year."

Chris Williams, at 140 pounds, boasted a 39-13-2 won-lost record in his senior year. Also an honor student, Chris finished second in the Wolverine 'A' Conference, however, came back in the districts to beat his Fordson opponent to avenge the loss. He was a state qualifier, and also helped the Tigers win a district title, their first regional team championship and finish second to Lake Orion in the state.

Best in state

Bruce Boyd of Romulus dumps one of his opponents en route to a sterling 45-1 won-lost season and the state crown in the 135-pound class. The Romulus senior leads the 1989-90 all-area high school wrestling team, considered one of the best in the 30-year selection of the elite teams. ANP file photo

Malecek is coach of year

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Belleville wrestling coach Gerald Malecek came within one victory of accomplishing probably what every high school coach in Michigan dreams of - winning a state championship.

Malecek and his Tigers lost to Lake Orion in the state finals, leaving them one victory from the coveted title.

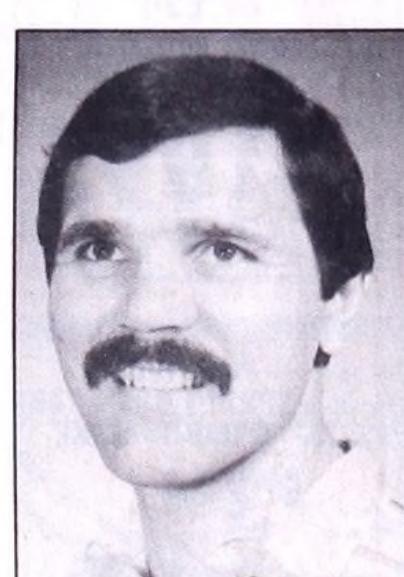

But en route to the top of the hill, the Tigers managed to capture a Wolverine 'A' Conference championship, a district, and a regional title.

It was the first time in the long and productive wrestling history of the school that Belleville grapplers managed to climb so high and close to the state crown.

And the accomplishment is astonishing in that Belleville, during pre-season predictions, wasn't even considered as a serious contender for a conference title.

Tradition. Quality athletes. Outstanding assistant coaches.

These are the factors that the modest Malecek attributes for his club success through the years. He won't admit that team success is directly related to the commitment by the head coach.

"We have built a tradition here over the years," said Malecek, who brought down the curtains on his 18th season at Belleville high. "Also, we have quality athletes - kids like Braswell (Mike), who didn't miss a meet this year and Davis (Steven) who wrestled in every one of these matches this year. When you have athletes who are devoted and work hard, it makes a coach's job easier."

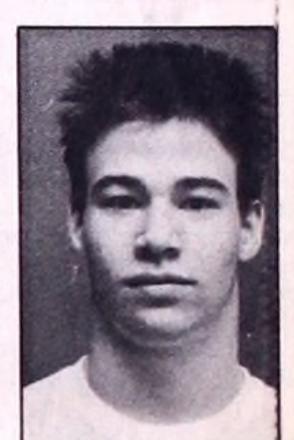

Malecek also noted that because he has two outstanding assistant coaches - John Ritchey and Michael Beckley - working with him, the Tigers have put together a winning combination.

"They know my style, and

See COACH, page B-7

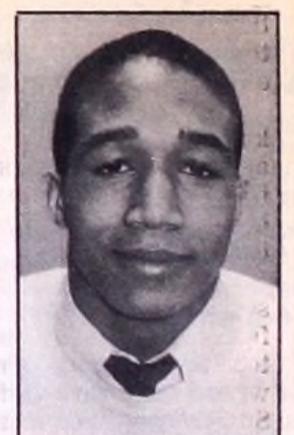

Terry Shenton is another one of those hard-nosed Romulus grapplers who, as a junior, finished with a 19-10 record at 145. A third place finisher in the conference, Shenton finished second at the prestigious Birmingham Brother Rice tournament. "It is always a personal pleasure to watch Terry wrestle," noted coach Norm Butler. "He constantly surprises us with the unexpected and unpredictable. We are looking forward to his return next year."

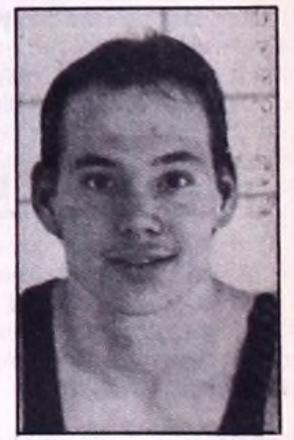

Brian 'The Bear' Farnan, a fifth-place finisher at the state championships, won 39 of his 44 matches this year. A senior, "The Bear", as he is called by his teammates and coach, placed first in the SCC Conference, regional, at the Flint Kearsley, Lansing Eastern and Toledo Waite tournament, while placing second at the district, Brother Rice and Lincoln Park invitatorials. "Brian has shown more heart, true grit, and determination this year than he has ever demonstrated in the previous five years that I have known him as a coach," said Coach Butler.

Mike Komaromi is the youngest of a brother duo picked for all-area recognition. Mike's brother, Jeff, also earned a berth. As a sophomore, Mike amassed a 32-18 won-lost record as a 160-pounder, and added the Wolverine 'A' Conference gold medal to his trophy display case. He apparently didn't allow his practice sessions disrupt his classroom studies. Mike was on the honor roll, according to the latest posting of grades.

Mike Braswell, a 171-pounder, has set a string of records during his wrestling career at Belleville. Winning the Wolverine 'A' Conference championships three consecutive years beginning with his sophomore season, Braswell posted a 50-3-1 record as a senior. Those 50 victories broke the old record of 47. He also has 126 career victories, 259 points among other records. He finished third in the state this year.

Jeff Komaromi, a junior, who compiled a 42-11 record this year, also is a repeated conference title winner. The 189-pounder has 66 pins - second on the all-time Tiger list. Also a National Honor Society member, Jeff has the potential to win gold in a tough weight class at state. Considered an aggressive and smart wrestler, Jeff played a major role in the Tigers' incredible year.

Jim Howe is one of those pleasant surprises for the Belleville coaches. Strong and determined, Howe worked his way to a 29-9-1 year and captured a gold medal at the Wolverine 'A' Conference championships. Although he didn't qualify to go to state this year, Howe probably will not have any trouble making the trip next year as one of the top seeds. He's only a junior and will be back in the Belleville lineup next year.

How we decide

The 1989-90 Associated Newspapers all-area high school wrestling team was selected by the ANP sports staff in cooperation with the area high school coaches.

The staff used statistics supplied to it by the coaches, and during the 1989-90 campaign also managed to watch these outstanding athletes in action.

The combined effort of staff and coaches has produced one of the finest all-area teams in the 30 years that the ANP has announced them.

If fans wonder why Belleville dominates the selections, all they have to do is flip back the pages of the ANP sports section and review what Coach Gerald Malecek and his Tigers accomplished this year - they finished second in the state of Michigan.

Wrestlers flock to Romulus for tournament

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Local wrestlers fared well at the inaugural Michigan State Wrestling Association's freestyle tournament, hosted by Romulus on Saturday.

More than 425 amateur grapplers took to the mats to vie for honors.

Romulus and Belleville wrestlers walked off with more than their share of medals.

Romulus' Dale Gehringer defeated Jeremy Samples, of Westland John Glenn, in the 112-pound category, to capture the gold medal in the Cadet Division.

Gehringer's teammate, Mike Scully, also won a gold medal. Scully turned back Adam Smith, a recent state qualifier from Gibraltar Carlson, for the crown in the 121-pound weight class of the Cadet Division.

David Gehringer, Dale's brother, took a gold medal in the 132-pound class of the Elite Division.

Belleville earned a silver medal when Steve David placed second in the 130-pound class. He lost the title to Aaron Lawrence.

One of the toughest, if not the toughest, weight class in the entire tournament was the 149-pound class of the Open (Senior) Division, which included some notable former Romulus High state qualifiers, Matt Scully and Dennis Corden.

Also, David Nowicki, former Romulus great who was an All-Area heavyweight a year ago, returned to the mats for the first time after a year long hiatus from the sport.

Nowicki, who placed second in the state in 1989, defeated the 1990 Class B state heavyweight champ, Dave Olsen of Saline in the finals to take home a gold.

Jason Drouillard of Romulus also placed second in the 121-weight class of the Cadet Division.

The tournament was sanctioned by the Michigan State Association of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States. Wrestlers were divided into age and weight groups and competed in the following categories: Bantam, Midget, Junior, Schoolboy, Cadet, Elite and Open Division.

Warren Wilson and Paul Pearce served as tournament directors.

Weather causing golf headaches

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

We all know how fickle Mother Nature can be. Take, for example, her wondrous display of spring two weeks ago. She teased us with 70- to 75-degree summer-like weather.

Then last week, she blasted Michigan with freezing winter weather, the temperature gauges dipping below the freezing mark.

All this winter weather means delays in local golf course openings, and, of course, headaches to avid golfers.

But take heart, golf course operators are getting the courses into shape for the inevitable arrival of spring.

Golfers are urged to contact their favorite courses before making the trip.

The 18-hole "Par 3" course, located in the Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville, is preparing for its 1990 opening. According to course officials, the rates are $3.50 Monday through Friday and $3.50 Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

Senior citizens, and juniors, 17 years old and under, will be charged $2 during the week, except holidays.

Officials also note that equipment rental is also available at a nominal fee. Players have the option of using their own golf balls or purchasing them from the course. Course hours are 8 a.m. to dusk, with extended hours later in the season.

There is a putting green located adjacent to the course, and golfers may buy their 1990 vehicle entry permits at an annual rate of $10 (regular); $5 for seniors or $2 daily.

For additional information, golfers are asked to call 697-9181 (Belleville) or 1-800-23-Golf-4 (toll-free).

Coming through

Attempting to cut a path through two Romulus defenders - Kelvin Brown (32) and Abu Hamilton (at left) provided Plymouth Salem senior guard Jeff Gold (dark jersey) with a ticket to the free throw line. Salem ousted the Eagles in the regional finals and advanced to the quarterfinals where the Rocks' bid for a state Class A title was ended by Battle Creek Central. Next week, the top prep cagers in the area will be honored.

Coach

they can step in and carry on the tradition," Malecek said of his two assistant coaches.

The 40-year-old Malecek knows what it's like to win-and-lose-on the mats. He prefers winning, of course. But he adds that there are lessons to learn in losing, as well.

Malecek wrestled in high school in Iowa, and received a full-ride athletic scholarship to Michigan State University where he competed for the Spartans on the mats for four years.

"Winning is much better than losing," he admits. "But you also learn from your losses, if you have anything to offer you say to yourself that I'm going to come back and train better and get my opponent the next time."

"It's true when they say that wrestling separates the men from the boys."

Malecek's team finished with a 19-2 record in dual meet competition this year, after the club posted an untarnished 7-0 mark in the conference. Their 19-2 is the best record in the win column, although the Tiger skipper has had three previously undefeated teams - 1978 (11-0), 1981 (12-0-1), and 1985 (12-0).

For his outstanding contributions to the sport of wrestling and to the young athletes, the Associated Newspapers are proud to name Gerald Malecek as "Coach of the Year" in wrestling for the 1989-90 season.

Schedules, please...

With the first week of spring comes the first request for high school spring sports schedules.

Local athletic directors are urged to mail the schedules, with the names of the head coaches assigned to the teams included, to the Associated Newspapers sports department as soon as they are available.

The schedules will help editors assign sports writers and photographers to particular events.

The ANP circulation area includes the high schools of Belleville, Romulus, New Boston Huron, Inkster, Dearborn Heights Robichaud, Wayne Memorial, John Glenn, Plymouth-Salem, Plymouth-Canton, and Livonia Franklin.

Mail schedules to: Associated Newspapers Sports Department, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, MI. 48184. Telephone staff writers Tom Mooradian or John Agge at 729-4000 during regular business hours, Monday through Friday, for further information.

The ANP coverage of the local sports scene will continue next week with its annual all-area teams. The top wrestlers, swimmers, basketball and volleyball players will be honored in the coming weeks.

The ANP will also pick a "Coach of the Year" in each of the above mentioned sports.

Classic car to be on display for charity event

Though Grosse Pointe Shores may seem to many western Wayne County residents to be the other side of the world and July 8 may seem a warm dream never to be realized, plan to head east on that day to view the car considered to be the most luxurious and valuable ever built.

Domino Pizza founder Tom Monaghan's 1931 Bugatti Royale Berline de Voyage, along with more than 150 classic, specialty and futuristic automobiles will be on display at the 1990 Eyes on the Classics July 8 at the Edsel and Eleanor Ford House in Grosse Pointe Shores.

Monaghan purchased the car in 1986 at the record-setting price of $8.1 million, evoking cries of unbridled opulence from his detractors. The vehicle appears to have been a wise investment, however, because now it's valued at more than $20 million.

The Bugatti Royale was the last of only six Royales ever made and was the personal car of its creator, Ettore Arco Isidore Bugatti. The body of the car is black and jonquil yellow and is made of hundreds of wood blocks covered by a wood veneer. The rear compartment of the Royale is upholstered in wool jacquard while the chauffeur's compartment is covered in fine leather. The car remains one of the largest passenger cars made and gets seven miles to the gallon while topping out at 110 mph.

The Italian-born Bugatti realized his career-long dream of a union of art and engineering with his 1931 creation. Experts point to the Royale as Bugatti's crowning achievement in automotive design, surpassing all previous expectations for automotive performance, comfort and style.

The Eyes on the Classics show, the only automobile design show in the world, is an annual benefit for the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology. The show celebrates automobile design by showcasing a collection of outstanding historic, special interest, show, prototype and current model vehicles and honors the vehicle designers.

General admission to the show will be $8 and will include a program.

For more information about the show, contact the 1990 Eyes on the Classics office at 824-5554.

Car operating costs increase

The cost of owning and operating a new car increased 7.8 percent this year when compared to 1989, according to an annual publication by the American Automobile Association.

"Your Driving Costs" stated new car owners who drive 15,000 miles per year can expect to pay an average of $4,954, or 33 cents per mile, for gasoline, financing, taxes, license, maintenance and insurance.

The 7.8 percent increase is down from the previous two years, AAA officials said. Driving costs increased 12 percent in 1989 and 10 percent in 1988.

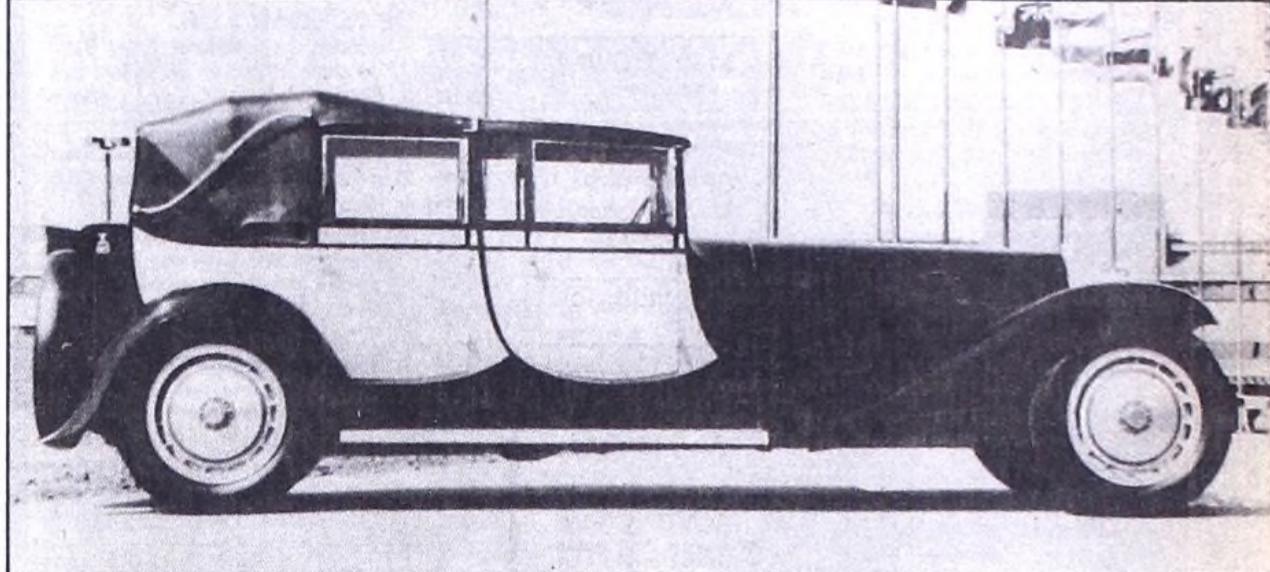

The annual publication by AAA informs motorists how to compute ownership costs and offers tips on vacation planning and business auto travel.

Averages on car expense were compiled by AAA officials after testing similarly-equipped subcompact, mid-size and full-size cars. AAA used a four-cylinder Ford Escort LX, a six-cylinder Ford Taurus L and an eight-cylinder Chevrolet Caprice in the tests.

Some of the operating expenses tested were:

- Gasoline and oil - 5.4 cents per mile or $810 per year, up $15 from 1989.
- Maintenance - 2.1 cents per mile or $315, a $30 increase.
- Tires - .9 cents per mile or $135, $15 higher than last year.
- Taxes, license and registration - a $12 yearly increase to $156.
- Finance charges - up from $588 to $638.

AAA has published "Your Driving Costs" since 1950. That year driving a car 10,000 miles per year cost 9 cents per mile and gas cost 27 cents a gallon.
